teaching and non-teaching staff of the department so that faculty members are well aware of the appraisal measurement criteria. The faculty is required to submit the filled in pro forma of self-appraisal which is based on "Performance Based Appraisal System" as per UGC regulations.

Evaluation of each staff member's appraisal report is based on the criteria like: work load, qualifications, experience, student feedback, Anna University exam results and pass percentage of the classes the teacher has taught, research papers published (national/international), patents filed/obtained, projects work/dissertation and Ph.D. guided, UG projects guided, research projects applied/funded, FDPs conducted/attended, international/national conferences/ seminars/ workshops conducted/ attended, pedagogy methods adopted/followed details, administrative responsibilities, responsibilities for students co-curricular activities and university duties.

Student feedback is collected and assessed once in a semester. Every faculty self-appraisal is evaluated by HoD based on the above criteria and the same is forwarded to the Principal. The consolidated API scores are analyzed, reviewed and appropriate actions are taken accordingly. The principal in consultation with HoD makes recommendations to the GB. This system helps the staff in setting up new goals and self-assesses their strengths and weaknesses.

Based on the Annual appraisal the teaching and non-teaching staff are given increments and this is one of the parameters in giving promotions in their respective cadre. On an average 95% of the staff are given increments in the last 5 years and 15% are promoted in their respective cadre.

Management reviews the performance of the faculty's appraisal, which reflects in increment, incentive, allowances and promotions in turn this will be communicated to the respective members. Promotion order copies are also filed in their individual files and maintained in the Principal office. Faculty members have been asked to fill the annual performance appraisal report every academic year. Based on filled in pro-forma faculty are suggested for the scope of improvement. In case of adverse remarks in the annual performance report, the employees are counseled and provided training to improve efficiency.
