6.3.5 - Institutions Performance Appraisal System for teaching and non-teaching staff

A performance appraisal system for both teaching and non-teaching staff in a pharmacy college should be structured to evaluate their contributions effectively and foster professional growth. Below is a framework for designing such a system:

1. Objectives of the Appraisal System

- Evaluate staff performance objectively.
- Recognize and reward contributions.
- Identify training and development needs.
- Enhance accountability and transparency.
- Align individual goals with institutional objectives.

2. Key Components of the Appraisal System

A. Teaching Staff

Evaluation Criteria:

1. Teaching Effectiveness:

- Student feedback (e.g., course delivery, clarity, and engagement).
- Examination results and performance of students.
- Innovation in teaching methods (use of technology, case-based learning, etc.).

2. Research and Publications:

- Number and quality of publications in peer-reviewed journals.
- Grants secured and projects undertaken.
- Presentations at national/international conferences.

3. Professional Development:

- Participation in workshops, conferences, and seminars.
- Additional qualifications or certifications earned.

4. Institutional Contributions:

- Mentorship roles (e.g., guiding students for projects).
- Administrative duties (committee participation, event coordination).
- Community outreach or involvement in social initiatives.

5. Student Mentorship and Support:

- Guidance for career development or research projects.
- Addressing student grievances effectively.

B. Non-Teaching Staff

Evaluation Criteria:

1. Job Knowledge and Skills:

- Proficiency in their area of work (lab management, office administration, etc.).
- Adaptability to new tools and technologies.

2. Work Efficiency and Quality:

- Accuracy and timeliness in task completion.
- Ability to handle multiple responsibilities.

3. Interpersonal Skills:

- Collaboration with peers, faculty, and students.
- Communication effectiveness.

4. Attendance and Punctuality:

- Consistency in attendance.
- Adherence to deadlines.

5. Contribution to Institutional Growth:

- Suggestions for process improvements.
- Involvement in events, workshops, or institutional initiatives.

3. Appraisal Process

Self-Appraisal:

- Staff members complete a self-assessment form detailing achievements and challenges.

1. Supervisor/Head Review:

- Department heads review staff performance based on documented evidence and observations.

2. Student Feedback (For Teaching Staff):

- Anonymous feedback collected from students regarding teaching effectiveness.

3. Appraisal Committee Evaluation:

- A committee evaluates all inputs and assigns ratings.

4. Performance Discussion:

- One-on-one discussion with the staff to communicate results and suggest areas for improvement.

5. Development Plan:

- Formulate an action plan for skill enhancement, if needed.

4. Rating System

- Define a clear rating scale (e.g., in each point of appraisal form minimum 50% must be scored ).

5. Rewards and Recognition

- Performance-based incentives (monetary or non-monetary).
- Awards for excellence in teaching, research, or administrative work.
- Promotions or additional responsibilities.

6. Addressing Underperformance

- Identify reasons for low performance.
- Offer support such as training or counseling.
- Set measurable goals for improvement within a specified timeframe.

7. Documentation and Review

- Maintain detailed records of each appraisal cycle.
- Periodically review the appraisal system for updates or improvements.
